

Congratulations to our amazing community for being awarded the Jelley Family Foundation Endowment for Children's Education grant through the Truman Heartland Community Foundation.

The grant was awarded to one of the district's early childhood education programs, Parents as Teachers (PAT). A quality preschool program can spark a lifetime of love of learning in a child. At Raytown, it's a priority to provide those quality, fully inclusive programs to our youngest learners.

The Jelley Family Foundation grant will support the district's efforts in continuing to build a solid foundation for learning with early introductions to numbers, shapes, sounds, and letters, as well as social skills that include learning how to share, contribute and collaborate with peers.

We are grateful to these partnerships and community organizations for helping us elevate our district offerings one program at a time.
